Dear Stan,

For obvious reasons I couldn't attend the ceremony in which you relinquished command, but the news of your new job is very encouraging to those of us who sometimes wonder whether anyone knows what is going on down there. I have only two qualms. First, I'm not sure the Navy can spare you. Second, I shall have to abandon all my snide remarks about the CIA. However, I shall undoubtedly be able to find other targets.

Seriously, Betty and I were delighted. She was, incidentally, in the gallery when the Senate confirmed you and reported she was "very excited." Like all Americans, we wish you well.

Sincerely,

WAL:jm

P.S. If you need any help, we might be able to spare
